

Co-op Community News

From the Parent Advisory Council of the North Seattle Community
College Cooperative Preschool
Program

January 2008

By Beth Goss, Parent Education Instructor

Sleep. It seems like new parents never get enough of it. It's hard to problem-solve, let alone have a conversation when you're sleep deprived. A frequent topic of conversation when I work with infant parents is usually "when will my baby sleep through the night?" In fact, when I teach newborn care classes at Swedish that almost always comes up and those folks aren't even parents yet! Most of what I've read tells me that babies can't really be expected to sleep through the night until they are at least 5 months old. Most babies younger than that still need to eat every few hours around the clock. However, "sleeping through the night" at that point would be defined as 6-8 hours straight. That's not "through the night" for me! So, what's a parent to do? Well, first off, it's important to have age appropriate expectations when it comes to sleep.

Here are some guidelines:

Average Sleep Needs

- 3-4 months 15 hours (10 during the nighttime)
- 9 months 14 hours (11 ¼ during the nighttime)
- 1 year 14 hours (11 ½ during the nighttime)
- 2 years 13 hours (11 ¾ during the nighttime)
- 3 years 12 hours (11 during the nighttime)
- 4 years 11 ½ hours- usually all during the nighttime

(Continued on page 2)

In This Issue:

- Sleep1
- Val Donato Award 3
- Bulletin Board 4

2007-08 Calendar

January

- 9 PAC Lecture with Holly Eckert see page 4
- 14 PAC Meeting
- 16 Elizabeth Crary's class begins see page 4
- 21 Martin Luther King Jr. Day (no school)

February

- 11 PAC Meeting
- 18-22 Mid-Winter Break (no school)
- 25-28 In-House Registration

March

- 10 PAC Meeting
- 10-13 Cross-Over Registration
- 22 Open Registration
- 31-April 4 Spring Break (no school)

April

- 14 PAC Meeting

May

- 19 PAC Meeting

The following is adapted from The Sleep Book for Tired Parents by Becky Huntley. I've been using this book with families for close to 10 years and have gone to it for my own needs as well. Her basic premise is that there is no "right way" to approach sleep. Do what feels right for your family. A sleep problem in one house may be the happy norm in another!

Four Basic Approaches to Solving Family Sleep Problems

Family Bed Approach

In this approach, several or all family members sleep together in the same bed. The idea behind this is that children's needs do not necessarily diminish at night and some families sleep more comfortably and for longer periods of time when using this approach.

Pros

- Easy to feed baby on demand
- Less disruption of parent's sleep
- Increased physical contact
- Coax early risers back to sleep
- Easy way to meet demands of high-needs children

Cons

- Decrease in parent's alone time
- Movement/noise can disrupt sleep
- Some children have trouble sleeping alone
- May be difficult to move to sleeping alone

Cry It Out Approach

In this approach, parents leave the room after the bedtime ritual and allow the child to cry until he falls asleep. No set length of crying is set. The idea behind this approach is that unwanted behavior, when ignored, will eventually die out.

Pros

- Quick results- a few days
- Least complicated plan
- Least amount of parental involvement
- Works for many families

Cons

- Difficult to listen to crying.
- May abandon plan
- Works best in crib
- Noisy
- Temptation to check may wreck the plan

Small Steps Approach

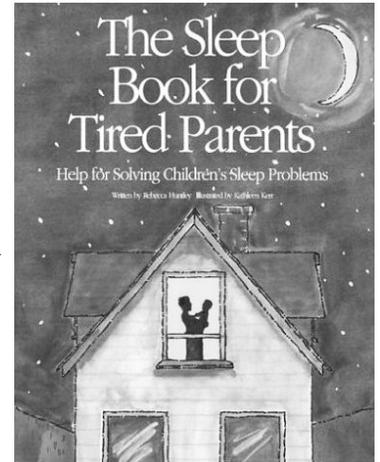

In this approach, parents leave the room after the bedtime ritual and allow the child to cry for an agreed upon amount of time- usually around 5 minutes. After this amount of time the parent goes in and checks on the child and reassures her. Parent leaves and then waits for 10 minutes before repeating this step. Finally, if the child is still crying, the parent returns 15 minutes later, reassures her, and then leaves. The parent then may return every 15 minutes until the child is asleep or calm. Each day the parent waits a bit longer before entering the room. The idea behind this approach is that children need to learn how to soothe themselves to sleep and will progressively build their own tolerance for being alone.

Pros

- Appropriate after child is 5-6 mos
- Meets the emotional needs of parents and child
- Parents get to check on child
- Can be tailored to situation
- Someone other than parent can put

Cons

- May take longer than other methods
- Some children get upset at the sight of their parents
- May abandon the plan
- Difficult to listen to crying
- More parent-oriented

Living With It Approach

In this approach, parents decide not to change anything they are currently doing.

Pros

- Gives parent time to re-think situation
- Allows situation to improve on its own
- Conscious decision decreases feeling of powerlessness
- Takes pressure off parents to "fix it"

Cons

- Time doesn't always solve the problem
- May put off inevitable
- Sleep deprivation

Adapted from The Sleep Book for Tired Parents by Rebecca Huntley

New Val Donato Award for Parent Ed Prof Development

Parent Education Program at NSCC

The mission of the Parent Education Program is to promote the development of knowledge and skills for strong and healthy families.

Parent education programs help students become more effective and satisfied in their role by helping them understand their child's behavior, by encouraging them to recognize developmentally appropriate activities, by assisting them in acquiring valuable information in areas which affect the welfare of the "whole child," and by teaching them methods to help their children develop responsible behavior.

Students' comments about the NSCC Parent Education Program and Val Donato

- "It is a great program! [Parent Education classes] should be required of all new parents – it provides a great opportunity to understand your child's development and be involved in your child's 'school' life in a way that is not as possible once they enter the regular school system. The program helps build confidence as a parent and provides a support network for when you are less than confident. I have enjoyed participating."
- "I don't think I could have quit my career and stayed sane without [Parent Education]."
- "I know I am a better mom because of what I've learned through [Parent Education]!"
- "Val is an exceptional teacher and a proven leader. She has been a tremendous asset. She always knows the right questions to ask, and has helped [us] deal with conflict in a very supportive, yet unassuming way. She has an incredible fund of knowledge, and [is] available for anyone."

Val Donato

Val Donato graduated from Queens College in New York City with a BA in Education. She moved to Washington DC and then to San Francisco, ending up in Seattle in 1970. She enrolled in Parent Education/Child Study classes at North Seattle Community College and began teaching those classes as a part-timer in 1974. As a student at NSCC, she became active in the leadership of that parent education class, assuming offices of parent coordinator, treasurer, and Advisory Council representative.

Val Donato with one of "her kids"

When Val first began in the program, only families of children from three to five years old were served. Val expanded the program to include parents of children beginning at birth. She has at various times taught every class offered by the program. The program now serves 42 preschools and 22 local childcare centers serving over 1000 families per quarter through co-operative classes, on-line classes, short-term classes, and lectures.

In 1997, Val earned a Masters in Human Development with an emphasis on Leadership in Education. She is the coordinator for and a full-time instructor in the program. In her spare time she loves to read fiction, garden, and be a grandparent to two wonderful grandchildren.

The Val Donato Award

In September, 2007, the Health and Human Services Division at NSCC initiated efforts to create the Val Donato Award to recognize Val and her dedicated, hardworking, and outstanding parent education faculty members. Depending on the amount of funds obtained (a minimum of $10,000.00 is needed), the annual award will consist of one or more $500 stipends to be used for professional development to further improve the Parent Education Program. Applicants/nominees will be selected by a committee of Parent Education faculty based upon their embodiment of Val's ideals and of the program itself.

Contributions to the award fund are 100% tax-deductible; for further details or to make a donation, contact the North Seattle Community College Education Fund at 206 527 3604 / nsceducationfund@sccd.ctc.edu.

Bulletin Board

Avoid Emotional
Meltdowns:
Helping Kids Deal with Disappointment

Elizabeth Crary

This two credit class is taught by Elizabeth Crary and starts January 16, 7:00-9:30pm, meeting off-campus. This class offers the tools and techniques you need to help children cope, whether you are dealing with toddler tantrums or middle-school meltdowns. For questions, call Elizabeth Crary at (206) 367-6425; to register, call Health and Human Services Division (206) 527-3783.

For location go to:
www.parentingpress.com/location

Preschool Openings Now!

All age groups, ready when you are:

www.northseattlecoops.org

Planning to stay in co-op next year? Don't forget to schedule tours at the preschools you're considering!

Contact

Editor: David McBride
Layout: Toby Beth Jarman

Email submissions to:
cornohops@yahoo.com

Email photos to:
tobybethj@comcast.net

NSCC Cooperative
Preschool Program
www.northseattlecoops.org
206.527.3783
(NSCC Parent Ed Office)

The Secret
Key To Unlocking
Any Family
Conflict

Holly Eckert

- Would you like a way to find more harmony in your relationship with your child?
- A way to show respect for both person's wishes?
- A tool to understand your child's behavior on a deeper level?
- And a reliable process to access your authenticity and self-confidence as a parent?

Gain both inspiration and concrete tools to create the relationship you envision!

Wednesday, January 9, 2008
7:00-9:00 pm

Faith Lutheran Church – Social Hall
8208 18th Avenue NE
Seattle, WA 98115

This lecture is free and open to the public. No RSVP is required. Please call (206) 417-3163 for more information.

Trainer and author Holly Eckert takes great pleasure in supporting families toward more understanding, co-operation and fun. Former Director of Northwest Attachment Parenting, Holly is currently a Certified Trainer with the global Center for Nonviolent Communication and the local Northwest Compassionate Communication. She lives in Seattle with husband Richard, son Manny (10) and daughter Keziah (4).

Volunteers Needed!

Registration season for the 2008-2009 school year is coming! We'll be spreading the word about North Seattle Community College's cooperative preschool program at the following preschool fairs:

MOMS Club of Seattle Preschool Fair

Saturday, January 19, 2008
10:00 am-12:00 pm
St. Alphonsus Parish School,
5816 15th Avenue NW
Seattle, WA 98017

ParentMap Preschool Preview Night

Wednesday, January 23, 2008
5:30 pm-8:00 pm
North Seattle
Community College
9600 College Way North
Seattle, WA 98103

Meet with local families, tell them all about our wonderful preschools, get them started on the enrollment process, and help boost enrollment for your school next year!

For more information, contact Toby Jarman at:
tobybethj@comcast.net